But the Farmer Was an Anti-Vice Ager Got Evidence Enough for the Arrest of the Hertz Gang Two Houses Italded -Col. Monroe Was One of Raiders.

Hotel at Third street and the Bowery and a member of the Sullivan-Engel-Hochstim b Hertz, proprietor of the Dry Dock clique, was arrested last night in his hotel by Detective Sergeant Rynders of the District Attorney's office on a Jerome warrant charging him with keeping a disorderly house at 15 First street.

At the same time Detective Sergeant MoNaught, also of the District Attorney's office, arrested Hertz s clerk on a similar warrant in connection with the Dry Dock Hotel and two of McCullagh's men took into custody Isaac Shawl and Morris Fluss, charged with being partners of Hertz in the First street resort. The prisoners were taken to Police Headquarters and turned over to Sergt. Funston, who locked them up. Col. Robert Grier Monroe of the Committee of 15 and Assistant District Attorneys Gans and Schurman were also participants in the raid.

The First street house attracted the attention of the 15 early in the summer of the lower East Side dives. Investigation convinced the committee that Hertz was the owner of the place and that he owned more houses of similar character than any man in New York. They were about to have Hertz arrested when they earned that he had ostensibly sold the place to Fluss and Shawi. The agreement made with them was that they were to take the lease of the place, with its goods and chattels, inanimate and human, until 1911 after they had paid Hertz $10,000. Some of this was paid down and for the balance notes were given. Early in August they had paid $4,200 cash and ownd $5,800.

Col. Monroe and John McCullagh, State Superintendent of Elections, then put their heads together, with the result that there appeared on the scene Frank Curtis, formerly a farmer of Goshen, N. Y., but now an anti-vice agent. He managed to get an introduction to Hertz Shawl and Fluss, and in a little while intimated that he would like to buy a place like the First street resort. First of all he wanted to inspect it and learn the details of how it was run and how much money he might

The three men took him through and told him all about it. On Aug. 9 he began negotiations which were carried on until Hertz and his partners were arrested last night. On Sept. 25 the negotiation had culminated in an agreement between the four men by which Curtis paid Hertz $300 days. $100. down, $100 on account and $200 for rent of the place during October Curtis told the men that his wife would run the resort and that he and she would run the resor-night at the Dry Dock Hotel, sign the papers night at the Dry Dock Hotel, sign the papers and turn over some cash. Curtis said that he would also bring along a friend as a witness. The friend was named Breen and was a McCullagh deputy. When Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and Breen went to the Dry Dock Hotel Supt. McCullagh sent four or five of his men over to East Third street, between Second avenue and the Bowery, where they would be on hand when wanted. Then he sept his deputy, named Beaver. Then he sent his deputy, named Beaver, with Col. Monroe, the Assistant District Attorneys and the detective sergeants, to whom the warrants were given, both be-cause they had proved faithful officers in the past and because Col. Murphy's orders that policemen on beats must not execute warrants without orders from their su-

Beaver was instructed to go into the Dry Dock Hotel and spot the clerk, against whom Beaver had obtained evidence for running the Dry Dock Hotel as a disorderly running the Dry Dock Hotel as a disorderly house. The others waited in sight of the hotel until Breen came out and raised his hat, a prearranged signal, to let them know that the game was ripe. McNaught had the warrant for the clerk and Rynders the three others. McNaught got his man and the rest of the party followed Breen upstairs, where they found Hertz, Shawl, These Mr, and Mrs. Curtis and two others. Fluss, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and two others one apparently a notary and the other a

The expression of surprise and rage upon the faces of the three men upon whom the warrants were served was study, but even then, apparently, they diappreciate fully Curtis's part in the game. Rynders took Hertz into his charge and the McCullagh men guarded the other two. In the room were many relating to the transaction, which were relating to the transaction, which were taken as evidence. When Hertz was searched at Police Headquarters two searched at Police Headquarters two checks were found in his possession signed by Mrs. Emma Curtis, one for $520 and the other for $1,000. They were in part payment for $1,000. They were in part payment for the transfer of the lease. While Curtis was engaged in getting the evidence concerning Hertz, Fluss and Shawl, Beaver and others secured the usual evidence as to the character of the First street house. They also secured the evidence against the Dry Dock Hotel, the letter payer of which has the heading. the letter paper of which has the heading.

CONTROL OF TIENTSIN. Chinese Seek It, and Refuse to Likin Certificates.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
PEKIN, Oct. 4.—The officers of Chili and adjoining provinces have refused to acmowledge transit certificates exempting inbound merchandise from the likin. These certificates are being issued by the provisional government at Tientsin. This is an attempt on the part of the Chinese to recover some of the revenues from Tientsin which formerly paid the greater part of the provincial expenses and are now used wholly for the improvement of Tientsin and the Peiho Sir Robert Hart, Imperial Commissioner of Maritime Customs, authorized the Imperial customs officers to issue certificates and arranged with all the officers to honor them. All merchants interested were notified to this effect. The provisional government at Tientsin has protested against the action of the provincial officers and is seeking the support of the foreign Ministers here. As the provisional government at Tientsin was instituted by the military authorities, who theoretically evacuated the province on Sept. 22, the Ministers who had acknowledged the Tientsin provisional government previously are unwilling to admit that there is any further necessity for conflicting with the letter of the protocol. The Chinese are anxious to re-cover control of Tientsin and Li Hung Chang is awaiting the settlement of affairs to remove his yamen there

It is thought by some perons that it i important for commerce that the provisional government should remain in control at Tientsin for a year and continue the work of bridging the river and dredging it out

THE MASSACRE AT BALANGIGA

TREACHERY OF THE NATIVES IN THE ISLAND OF SAMAR.

The President of the Town, Who Was Considered Friendly, Led the Attack on Our Soldiers —The Men Surprised White at Breakfast -Savagery of the Natives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 - Additional details of the horrible massacre of American soldiers at Balangiga, in the island of Savaar, were received to-night at the War Department in a cable-despatch from Gen. Chaffee Manila Gen. Chaffee's despatch is made up of reports received by him from Gen. Hughes, who transmitted a report from Lieut, James F. Drouillard of the Ninth Infantry, dated Sept. 29, and one from Capt. Bookmiller of the Ninth Infantry dated Sept. 30. They confirm previous reports of the death of Capt. Connell. Lieut. Bumpus and Surgeon Griswold of Company C, stationed at Balangiga, and tell such a tale of treachery as removes all ground for criticism that proper military precaution had not been taken by the officer in command. It shows that even the President of the town, whom the soldiers had every reason to consider friendly led the attacking party which gained access to the convent in which the officers were quartered.

It appears from Lieut Druillerd's report that the men while at breakfast were taken completely by surprise by an attacking force which gained possession of the soldiers' arms. A terrible hand to hand struggle took place in the messroom, resulting in the death of many of the soldiers. The enemy were beaten off temporarily, however by twenty-five men who gained their rifles and Sergt. Betron, assuming command, endeavored to collect the men preparatory to a retreat from the island in boats They were attacked again, however, and more of their number killed and wounded It was while the conflict was going on in the mess hall that the President of the town, at the head of about two hundred bolomen, led the attack upon the officers in the convent. The savagery of the natives is shown by the statement in Capt. Bookmiller's despatch that, upon examining the scene of the battle, he found a number of the bodies of the Americans

Capt. Bookmiller's report shows that he went to Balangiga and found the town deserted. The insurgents had secured fifty-seven serviceable rifles and 28,000 cartridges. After burying the dead and burning the town he returned to Bassey. burning the town he returned to Bassey.
Gen. Hughes remarks that it is intended to chastise the savages, if found, and that Col. DeRussy of the Eleventh Cavalry has sent a strong company after them.
Gen. Chaffee says that the names of the killed will have to be determined by the elimination of the survivors from the mus-ter roll of the company. He adds that the June muster roll, which was printed in full in The Sun several days ago, is probably the latest evidence to be had.

It is said at the War Department to-night that the mistake should not be made of supposing that all persons belonging to the company as shown on the muster roll. the company as shown on the muster roll and unaccounted for as survivors are among the killed. The reason for this is that the muster roll shows a strength of over a hundred men, many of them being detailed to duty in Manila, others in hospitals, and some in the United States. Also that the strength of Company C at Battangian was only seventy-two men. The langiga was only seventy-two men. The following is the text of Gen. Chaffee's despatch as made public to-night by the War Department:

our Unions Vote to Strike -Committee of

Business Men Falls to Secure a Compromise-The Employees Will Be Ordered to Gult Work on Monday FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 4 .- A strike cotton operatives is inevitable. That ras settled to-night after a conference with the manufacturers failed and after five unions had held special meetings and four of them had voted. There was a great outpouring of operatives and five rere productive of great enthusiasm. The conference of operatives and manufacturers began at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The Manufacturers' Association was represented by its Executive Committee; the operatives by the secretaries of five uplons For nearly two hours every point at issue was discussed thoroughly. Cost of cotton and the margins and other features of the business were taken up and the labor leaders used some of the statements made by M. C. D. Borden regarding the conlition of trade as the basis of their claim for an advance.

The manufacturers would concede nothing along that line for two reasons, one wing that Borden has advantages in operat ng that they do not possess, and the other that it is not so much the margin of profit as a desire to protect his own interests that is behind his action. Neither side would agree to any concessions, and when the secretaries were ready to withdraw, they were informed that no advance would

At 8 o'clock four unions held formal sessions and each voted unanimously to strike. The spinners did not vote. They had not been called together for the purpose and that here would be no chance to dispute their action they decided to hold a meeting to-morrow afternoon. They will then yote to strike. The manufacturers have passed a paper that has been signed by all treasurers, pledging themselves to stand y the decision not to advance wages until ill parties to the agreement vote to change their attitude.

With the manufacturers so thoroughly determined to fight it out and the operatives as firm as the mill men it is evident that there will be a hard battle on Monday morning. A committee of business me waited upon the manufacturers and coun selled with them without avail. The com-mittee then asked the operatives to desist, but they refused to do so. To-morrow all mill operatives will be notified to keep away from the mills on Monday morning, and it is believed that every unionist and hundreds of those not affiliated with the organizations will comply. It is expected that more than two-thirds will comply with the first call and that the majority of the others cannot work because the mills will be closed. Business men are n sore straits, as a strike of any duration will make a hard winter in all circles.
